Employing People with IDD as a Way to Help with the Hiring Crisis

By Lorene Reagan, RN, Director of Public Relations, IntellectAbility

According to a March 2022 report from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the employment–population ratio—the percentage of the population that is employed—for people with a disability was only 19.1 percent in 2021, compared to 63.7 percent for people who do not have a disability. Sadly, the same report showed this rate has remained largely unchanged over the past 10 years. And for people with intellectual/developmental disabilities (IDD), finding and retaining employment can be even more challenging.

Best Buddies, an organization that matches skilled and qualified individuals with businesses seeking enthusiastic and dedicated employees, estimates up to 81% of adults (18+) with developmental disabilities do not have a paid job in the community.

Why is this?

Even in the midst of a hiring crisis, many employers are hesitant to hire people with intellectual or developmental disabilities because of myths and stereotypes including:

- Concern about negative coworker reactions to hiring a person with IDD
- Assumptions that it will cost more to hire, train, and maintain employment for people with IDD
- Beliefs that people with IDD will not be as productive or will be unable to develop the knowledge, skills, and attitudes necessary to complete job tasks
- Fear of litigation associated with hiring and firing people with IDD
- Negative stereotypes about people with IDD
- Concern about negative customer reactions
- Lack of economic incentives, such as tax credits, for hiring people with IDD

According to recent estimates, the United States has about ten million job openings, yet over 8.4 million unemployed individuals are still looking for work. As business owners lament the challenges related to inadequate staffing and Americans are confronted with longer wait times for services, employing people with IDD is a way to help alleviate the labor shortage and increase the level of diversity, equity, and inclusion in the workplace.

People with IDD are valuable assets to our workforce and can:

- Address recruitment and training costs associated with routinely filling high turnover positions
- Demonstrate lower absenteeism and sick leave than other employees
- Promote a more diverse and inclusive workplace and enhance employee morale
- Foster a culture of corporate responsibility
- Provide the organization with access to potential federal tax incentives such as the Disabled Access Credit, Barrier Removal Tax Credit, and the Work Opportunity Tax Credit

The webinar panel will also highlight innovative strategies to measure the level of current partnership engagement with employers and the impact of direct and indirect employment services.

ADA & Employment Resources from the U.S. Department of Labor

The ADA underpins and inspires all of the work of the Office of Disability Employment Policy (ODEP). Through policy development, outreach and education, and technical assistance, ODEP assists both workers with disabilities and employers in understanding their protections and obligations under the law.

- Through its Job Accommodation Network \(JAN\), ODEP provides extensive technical assistance on the reasonable accommodations provision of the ADA. Covered employers are required to provide "reasonable accommodations" to qualified job applicants and employees with disabilities. This is defined as any change or adjustment to a job, work environment, or the way things are usually done that would allow an individual with a disability to apply for a job, perform job functions, or enjoy equal access to benefits available to other employees. JAN provides expert guidance, training, and resources to individuals and employers on all aspects of accommodations at no cost. Also available are JAN publications on the ADA and related laws.
- The Employer Assistance and Resource Network on Disability Inclusion \(EARN\) is an ODEP technical assistance center that provides resources to help employers recruit, hire, retain, and advance individuals with disabilities and comply with their responsibilities under the ADA.
- The ODEP-funded Partnership on Employment & Accessible Technology \(PEAT\) promotes the employment of people with disabilities through the development, adoption, and promotion of accessible technology policy.

Suicide and Crisis Lifeline is now 988

The National Suicide Prevention Lifeline is switching its 10-digit number to a three-digit phone number. The new number to call is 988.

It's easier to remember, and it's easier to use for people thinking about suicide or having a mental health crisis and their family members. This transition is an important step to strengthening and transforming the crisis care continuum in the U.S.

Sen. Jack Reed of Rhode Island was one of the co-authors of the bill behind the phone number switch. The senator said the transition will make it easier for those in need of help and for the behavioral health system offering the support.

"One of the critical issues we face, and it's not unique to the health care but is significant, is the lack of trained and qualified health care professionals," said Senator Reed. "One of the reasons I think this 988 number makes sense is because we can more efficiently use the people we have with this centralized coordination with these messages coming in."

Rhode Islanders in crisis currently use the BH Link hotline, which connects to a call center that's staffed 24/7. The hotline number is 401-414-LINK (5465) or 855-KID(543)-LINK(5465) for those under age 18. The service has been judged the best in the nation when it comes to handling calls quickly. 988 calls placed in Rhode Island will be routed there.

Who should call or text 988? People experiencing mental health-related distress. That could be: thoughts of suicide, mental health or substance use crisis, or any other kind of emotional distress.

Who am I connected to when I call 988? Crisis counselors stationed at BH Link, the 24-hour, 7-day triage center located in East Providence.

Is 988 a substitute for 911? No. In an emergency still call 911.

Can someone concerned about a loved one call 988? Yes.

Does the Lifeline feature TTY services? For TTY Users: Use your preferred relay service or dial 711 then 988.

SignUp Extension for ASL on Disney+ and Netflix

The SignUp Google Chrome Extension overlays American Sign Language (ASL) interpretation on the streaming platforms, Disney+ and Netflix, for more accessible captioning. It is a media-accessibility tool as well as a learning tool for students of ASL. SignUp is a fun way for kids (and adults!) to enjoy mainstream movies.

Subtitles and closed captions make it possible for deaf people to enjoy films and television shows—but what about those who can't read, or whose reading isn't fast enough to keep up with the captions? How does a deaf person fully appreciate a movie if they can't understand what any of the characters are saying and can't read the captions?

Mariella Satow ran into that question when she was teaching herself American Sign Language.

According to the BBC, 17-year-old Satow wanted to watch TV shows with sign language interpretation to help her learn ASL, but found very few that included signing. At first, that was the problem she wanted to solve, but as she learned more about deaf children, she realized an app that included sign language interpretation for kids' movies could also fill a gap in the deaf community.

Satow has dual citizenship in the U.S. and the U.K. and had been attending high school in England, but when she got stuck in New York during the summer of 2020 due to COVID-19 travel restrictions, she used the pandemic downtime—and her $3000 savings from dog walking—to create an app. It took her a year to develop the technology, and with the help of the deaf community and ASL teachers, the SignUp app was born.

SignUp is a free Google Chrome extension that provides sign language captioning over Disney+ videos. It puts a small box with a sign language interpreter in the corner of the screen while the movie plays—a surprisingly simple solution to the problem of not being able to hear or read captions.

Right now, the app is only available for a handful of Disney+ videos. Satow thought the site was a good place to start to have the most impact for kids, but she now has requests to add hundreds more films to the app and is planning a British Sign Language version of the app.

"There are more than 300 sign languages used worldwide, so it'll take a long time to get all of those versions out," she said.

Satow is surprised but thrilled with the reception SignUp has gotten. "I'm glad I could fill the gap in the small way I can," Satow told Sag Harbor Express. "I hope it sparks a movement of ASL captioning on everything."

To get the extension and use it to launch signing captions, go to the Chrome Web Store. You can also watch this video to learn how to use SignUp.

LIFELINE

In 2020, Congress designated the new 988 dialing code to operate through the existing National Suicide Prevention Lifeline.

The Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) is the lead federal agency, in partnership with the Federal Communications Commission and the Department of Veterans Affairs, working to make the promise of 988 a reality for America. Moving to a 3-digit dialing code is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to strengthen and expand the existing National Suicide Prevention Lifeline (the Lifeline).

Of course, 988 is more than just an easy-to-remember number—it is a direct connection to compassionate, accessible care and support for anyone experiencing mental health related distress – whether that is thoughts of suicide, mental health or substance use crisis, or any other kind of emotional distress. Preparing for full 988 implementation requires a bold vision for a crisis care system that provides direct, life-saving services to all in need.

SAMHSA sees 988 as a first step towards a transformed crisis care system in much the same way as emergency medical services have expanded in the US.

In pursuit of this bold yet achievable vision, SAMHSA is first focused on strengthening and expanding the existing Lifeline network, providing life-saving service to all who call, text or chat via 988. Longer term, SAMHSA recognizes that linking those in crisis to community-based providers—who can deliver a full range of crisis care services—is essential to meeting crisis needs across the nation.

Frequently Asked Questions

What is the Lifeline and will 988 replace it?

The Lifeline is a national network of over 200 local, independent, and state-funded crisis centers equipped to help people in emotional distress or experiencing a suicidal crisis. Moving to 988 will not replace the Lifeline, rather it will be an easier way to access a strengthened and expanded network of crisis call centers. Beginning July 16, 2022, people can access the Lifeline via 988 or by the 10-digit number (which will not go away).

When will 988 go live nationally?

The 988 dialing code will be available nationwide for call (multiple languages), text or chat (English only) on July 16, 2022. Until then, those experiencing a mental health or suicide-related crisis, or those helping a loved one through crisis, should continue to reach the Lifeline at its current number, 1-800-273-8255.

How is 988 different from 911?

988 was established to improve access to crisis services in a way that meets our country's growing suicide and mental health related crisis care needs. 988 will provide easier access to the Lifeline network and related crisis resources, which are distinct from 911 (where the focus is on dispatching Emergency Medical Services, fire and police as needed).

How is 988 being funded?

Congress has provided the Department of Health and Human Services workforce funding through the American Rescue Plan, some of which will support the 988 workforce. At the state level, in addition to existing public/private sector funding streams, the National Suicide Hotline Designation Act of 2020 allows states to enact new state telecommunication fees to help support 988 operations.

Is 988 available for substance use crisis?

The Lifeline accepts calls from anyone who needs support for a suicidal, mental health and/or substance use crisis.

Urgent realities.

Too many Americans are experiencing suicide and mental health crises without the support and care they need. In 2020 alone, the US had one death by suicide about every 11 minutes — and for people aged 10-34 years, suicide is a leading cause of death.

Easier access.

Moving to an easy-to-remember, 3-digit dialing code will provide greater access to life-saving services.

There is hope.

Providing 24/7, free and confidential support to people in suicidal crisis or emotional distress works! The Lifeline helps thousands of people overcome crisis situations every day.
