Self-Advocacy is a national and international movement that is directed by people who have a developmental disability. Self-Advocacy means being in charge of your own life. Find out what’s important & learn how to speak-up about it, Be a part of the community & give something back. We all have something to say and something to share. Being involved in Self-Advocacy can help you learn to speak-up and take action about the things that matter most.

Together We Can Make a Difference.
